Analysis

Introduction

Twenty items subject to the Alloys generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of alloys, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 4Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty items subject to the Alloys generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item naming "Alloys" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale³. Additionally, the generic heading, item 12700, would be amended to read "Alloys Group."

A new Note, item B-NEW, would be established to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

³ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Forty-two items subject to the Aluminum generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of aluminum articles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, forty-two items subject to the Aluminum generic heading would be canceled with reference to item 13120. Concurrently, item 13120 would be modified, and the description would be amended to provide a “viz.” format with classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale⁴. Additionally, the generic heading, item 13100, would be amended to read “Aluminum Group.”

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled as having no further application, and four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 13120 to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.” Two Notes would be canceled as having no further application.

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁴ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability characteristics and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, fourteen items subject to the Ammunition, Not Explosive, Group would be canceled with reference to a new item naming "Ammunition, Not Explosive" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁵ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Eight items in the Artists' or Crafters' Materials or Supplies Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of artists' or crafters' materials or supplies, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 7Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, eight items subject to the Artists' or Crafters' Materials or Supplies Group would be canceled with reference to item 14535. Concurrently, item 14535 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁶ and the description would be amended.

Additionally, Note, item 14558, would be canceled with no further application, and three Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 14535 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁶ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 8Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, nineteen items subject to the Athletic Goods Group would be canceled with reference to item 15520. Concurrently, item 15520 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷, and the description would be amended.

Additionally, Note, item 16542, would be canceled with reference to a new Note attendant to item 15520, and a second attendant Note would be established to further clarify the application of the item. Two Notes, items 15732 and 17346, would be canceled as having no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁷ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Seventy-seven items in the Automobile Parts Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of parts for automobiles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 9Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, seventy-seven items subject to the Automobile Parts Group would be canceled with reference to item 18260. Concurrently, item 18260 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁸, and the description would be amended.

Furthermore, eight Notes would be canceled with no further application, and twelve Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 18260 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁸ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Four items subject to the Barks generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of bark articles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues and density has been determined to be is the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, four items subject to the Barks generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item naming "Barks" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale¹⁰. Additionally, the generic heading, item 21500, would be canceled as having no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

¹⁰ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Sixty-two items in the Boilers, Furnaces, Stoves and Related Articles Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of boilers, furnaces, stoves, and other related articles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, sixty-one items subject to the Boilers, Furnaces, Stoves and Related Articles Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming “Boilers, Furnaces, Radiators, Stoves, Related Articles or Parts Named” with a “viz.” format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale¹³. Additionally, item 27340 would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, three Notes would be canceled with no further application, and twenty Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item in order to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

¹³ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Seven items subject to the Booths generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of booths, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 15Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, seven items subject to the Booths generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item naming "Booths" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale¹⁴. Additionally, the generic heading, item 27860, would be amended to read "Booths Group."

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz.," and one Note, item 27997, would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

¹⁴ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-eight items in the Box Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of boxes or containers, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 17Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-seven items subject to the Box Group would be canceled with reference to item 29785. Concurrently, item 29785 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale¹⁶, and the description would be modified to provide a "viz." format. Additionally, item 28940 would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 29785 to clarify the application of the articles named within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

¹⁶The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-four items in the Brass, Bronze or Copper generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of brass, bronze or copper articles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-four items subject to the Brass, Bronze or Copper generic heading would be canceled with reference to item 30160. Concurrently, item 30160 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale¹⁷, and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format. Additionally, the generic heading, item 30100, Brass, Bronze or Copper, would be amended to read "Brass, Bronze or Copper Group."

Furthermore, Note, item 30762, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to item 30160 to clarify the application of the articles named within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-six items in the Brick Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of bricks, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 19Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-six items subject to the Brick Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Bricks, Blocks, Slabs, Tile or Related Articles" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale.

Additionally, two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz." and two notes would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

AnalysisIntroduction

Forty-one items in the Building Materials, Miscellaneous Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of building materials, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, forty-one items subject to the Building Materials, Miscellaneous Group would be canceled with reference to a new item naming “Building or Paving Materials, miscellaneous” with a “viz.” format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale¹⁸.

Additionally, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and six Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

¹⁸ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Sixteen items in the Camera Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of cameras, video camera recorders, cinema, or photographic equipment or materials, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 22Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, sixteen items subject to the Camera Group would be canceled with reference to a new item naming "Cinema, Photographic or Video Recording Equipment or Materials" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale¹⁹.

Additionally, four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

SUBJECT 24

Analysis

Introduction

Forty items in the Carriers, Shipping, Group as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of shipping carriers, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, thirty-nine items subject to the Carriers, Shipping, Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Carriers, Shipping" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale²¹. Additionally, item 40880 would be canceled with no further application

Furthermore, four Notes would be canceled with no further application, and nine Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to new item in order to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

²¹ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Seven items in the Cement Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of cement, lime or plaster matter, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 25Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Analysis

Introduction

One hundred twenty-five items in the Chemicals Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of chemicals, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, one hundred seventeen items subject to the Chemicals Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Chemicals" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale²³. Additionally, eight items would be canceled as having no further application.

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and twenty six Notes would be canceled and reestablished as seven new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

²³ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Forty-two items in the Clay Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of clay products and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 27Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, forty items subject to the Clay Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Clays, Concentrates, Earths or Ores" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale²⁴. Additionally, item 48115 would be canceled as obsolete, and item 48130 would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, Note, item 48117, would be canceled with no further application, and Note, item 48482, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

SUBJECT 28Analysis*Introduction

Twenty-five items in the Cloth, Fabric, Dry Goods or Textiles Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of dry goods or textiles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-five items subject to the Cloth, Fabric, Dry Goods or Textiles Group would be canceled with reference to item 49260. Concurrently, item 49260 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale²⁵, and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format.

Additionally, Note, item 49262, would be canceled with no further application, and three Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 49260 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

²⁵ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

AnalysisIntroduction

Twenty-eight items in the Conduits, Other Than Earthen, Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of non-earthen conduits, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-eight items subject to the Conduits, Other Than Earthen, Group, would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming “Conduits, Pipe, Smokestacks, Tubing or Fittings, other than clay, concrete or earthen” with a “viz.” format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale²⁷.

Additionally, four Notes would be canceled with no further application, and Note, item 52581, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

²⁷ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Five items subject to the Covers generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of covers, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 33Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, five items subject to the Covers generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Covers" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale³⁰. Additionally, the generic heading, item 54500, would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, Note, item 54652, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

³⁰ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Seven items in the Decorations Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of decorations, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, seven items subject to the Decorations Group would be canceled with reference to item 56040. Concurrently, item 56040 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale³¹, and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format.

Furthermore, two Notes, would be canceled and reestablished attendant to item 56040, to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz." Note, item 56281, would be canceled with no further application.

³¹ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Eleven items in the Dental, Hospital, Medical or Surgical Supply Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of medical supplies and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 35

Therefore, eleven items subject to the Dental, Hospital, Medical or Surgical Supply Group would be canceled with reference to item 56590. Concurrently, item 56590, would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale³², and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format.

Additionally, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and six Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 56590 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

³² The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-five items in the Drawing Instruments, Optical Goods or Scientific Instruments generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of goods, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-five items subject to the Drawing Instruments, Optical Goods or Scientific Instruments generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Drawing Instruments, Optical Goods or Scientific Instruments" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale³³. Additionally, the generic heading, item 57670, would be amended to read "Drawing Instruments, Optical Goods or Scientific Instruments Group."

Furthermore, four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item number to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz.," while one Note, item 58361, would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

Analysis

Introduction

Thirty-seven items in the Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Preparations or Personal Care Products Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of medicines and personal care products, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 37Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, thirty-six items subject to the Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Preparations or Personal Care Products Group, would be canceled with reference to item 58770. Concurrently, item 58770 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale³⁴, and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format. Additionally, item 59240 would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, four Notes would be canceled with no further application, one new Note would be established, Note, item 58774, amended, and Note, item 59421, canceled with reference to Note, item 58771 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

³⁴ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

One hundred fifty-three items in the Electrical Equipment Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of electrical equipment, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, one hundred fifty-three items subject to the Electrical Equipment Group would be canceled with reference to item 61700. Concurrently, item 61700 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale³⁵, and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format.

Furthermore, nine Notes would be canceled with no further application, and thirty-two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 61700 to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

³⁵ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Three items subject to the Fasteners or Parts Named generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of fasteners or fastener parts and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Analysis

Introduction

Fifteen items in the Feed Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of feed or feed supplements, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

THIS SPACE INTENTIONALLY LEFT BLANK

SUBJECT 40Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, fifteen items subject to the Feed Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Feed or Feed Supplements," with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale³⁷.

Furthermore, four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item in order to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz," and two Notes would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

³⁷ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Six items in the Foodstuffs Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of foodstuffs, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, six items subject to the Foodstuffs Group would be canceled with reference to item 73260. Concurrently, item 73260 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁴⁰, and the description would be amended.

Furthermore, four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 73260 in order to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz. Note, item 73152, canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁴⁰ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Forty items in the Fruits or Vegetables, Fresh or Green, Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of fresh fruits or vegetables, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, forty items subject to the Fruits or Vegetables, Fresh or Green, Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Fruits, fresh, not frozen, or Vegetables, fresh or green, not frozen" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁴³. Additionally, the Fruits or Vegetables, Fresh or Green, Group, item 77500, would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and three Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁴³ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Thirteen items in the Furniture Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of furniture, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 47Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twelve items subject to the Furniture Group would be canceled with reference to item 79300. Concurrently, item 79300 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁴⁴, and the description would be amended.

Additionally, three Notes are canceled with no further application, and seven Notes are canceled and reestablished attendant to item 79300 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁴⁴ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Ten items in the Gravel or Stone Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of rock, gravel, or stone articles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, ten items subject to the Gravel or Stone Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Gravel, Sand, Slag, Slate or Stone" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁴⁷.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁴⁷ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Eight items subject to the Hair or Bristles generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of hair and bristles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 53Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, eight items subject to the Hair or Bristles generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Hair or Bristles" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵⁰. Additionally, the generic heading, item 92000, would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

Analysis

Introduction

Sixty-three items in the Hardware Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of hardware, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic. Therefore, sixty-three items subject to the Hardware Group would be canceled with reference to item 95190. Concurrently, item 95190 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵¹, and the description would be amended.

Additionally, Note, item 93362, would be canceled with no further application, and three Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 95190 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁵¹ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Nine items in the Hats or Millinery Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of hats or millinery goods and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, nine items subject to the Hats or Millinery Group would be canceled with reference to item 98390. Concurrently, item 98390 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵³, and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format. Additionally, the Hats or Millinery Group, item 98150, would be canceled with no further application, and the indentations of item 98390 would be adjusted accordingly.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁵³ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Seventeen items in the Household Utensils Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of household utensils and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 57Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, seventeen items subject to the Household Utensils Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Household Utensils or Related Articles" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵⁴. Additionally, the Household Utensils Group, item 100500, would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, three Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item in order to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

A new item would also be established naming "Forks, Knives, Knife Blades or Spoons, made of gold or other precious metal (other than sterling silver), or with parts of gold or other precious metal (other than sterling silver), such as backs or handles, but not including small silver ornaments" at class 0.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁵⁴ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Five items in the Insulation or Insulating Materials Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of insulation related items, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 59Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, five items subject to the Insulation or Insulating Materials Group would be canceled with reference to item 103300. Concurrently, item 103300 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵⁶ and the description would be amended. Additionally, the Insulation or Insulating Materials Group, item 103000, and Note, item 103441, would be canceled with no further application and the indentations of item 103300 would be adjusted accordingly.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁵⁶ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Thirty-five items in the Lamps or Lighting Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of lighting related items, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 60Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, thirty-five items subject to the Lamps or Lighting Group would be canceled with reference to item 109700. Concurrently, item 109700 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵⁷, and the description would be amended.

Furthermore, eight Notes would be canceled with no further application, and seven Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to 109700 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

Additionally, Package 790 would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁵⁷ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-nine items in the Lumber Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of lumber or lumber products, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 62Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-nine items subject to the Lumber Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Lumber, Veneer or Forest Products" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁵⁹.

Additionally, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁵⁹ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Fourteen items under the Meters, or Parts Named generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of meters or meter parts, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, fourteen items subject to the Meters, or Parts Named generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Meters or Parts Named" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁶⁰. Additionally, the generic heading, item 136700, would be amended to read "Meters, or Parts Named, Group."

Furthermore, Note, item 136992, would be amended, and Note, item 136942, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁶⁰ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

SUBJECT 67

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-six items subject to the Musical Instruments, or Parts Named generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of musical instruments, or musical instrument parts, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-six items subject to the Musical Instruments, or Parts Named generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming “Musical Instruments, or Parts Named” with a “viz.” format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale⁶⁴. Additionally, the generic heading, item 138800, would be amended to read “Musical Instruments, or Parts Named, Group.”

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁶⁴ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-seven items subject to the Oils, Other Than Petroleum generic heading, would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Oils, Other Than Petroleum" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁶⁶, and item 145390 would be canceled as having no further application. Additionally, the generic heading, item 144600, would be amended to read "Oils, Other Than Petroleum, Group."

Furthermore, three Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁶⁶ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Four items in the Packing Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of packing materials, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 70Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, four items subject to the Packing Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Packing Materials, for creating air, gas, liquid or mechanically tight seals or joints" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁶⁷. Additionally, the Packing Group, item 148400, would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, Note, item 148402, would be canceled with no further application, and Note, item 148522 would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

AnalysisIntroduction

Two items in the Pads, Padding and Related Articles Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of pads or padding, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, two items subject to the Pads, Padding and Related Articles Group would be canceled with reference to item 149265. Concurrently, the description of items 149240 and 149265 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁶⁸, and the descriptions would be amended. Additionally, the Pads, Padding and Related Articles Group, item 149000, would be canceled with no further application, and the indentations for items 149240 and 149265 would be adjusted accordingly.

Furthermore, Note, item 149212, would be canceled with no further application, and Note, item 149211, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to item 149265 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁶⁸ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Eight items in the Paints Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of paint or paint related materials, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, eight items subject to the Paints Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Paint and Related Materials" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁶⁹.

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁶⁹ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Ninety items in the Paper Articles Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of paper products, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

SUBJECT 73Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, eighty-nine items subject to the Paper Articles Group would be canceled with reference to item 153900. Concurrently, item 153900 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷⁰, and the description would be amended. Additionally, item 154380 would be canceled as obsolete.

Furthermore, twelve Notes would be canceled with no further application, and fourteen Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 153900 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁷⁰ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Four items in the Paste Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of paste articles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 74Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, four items subject to the Paste Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Paste" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷¹. Additionally, the Paste Group, item 154700, would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁷¹ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Seven items in the Pesticides Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of pesticides, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, seven items subject to the Pesticides Group would be canceled with reference to item 155050. Concurrently, item 155050 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷², and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

SUBJECT 77Analysis*Introduction

Six items in the Plastic or Rubber Articles Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of plastic or rubber commodities and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, six items subject to the Plastic or Rubber Articles Group would be canceled with reference to item 156600. Concurrently, item 156600 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷⁴ and the description would be amended.

Furthermore, Note, item 157228, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to item 156600 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz." Two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and Note, item 156602, would be amended.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁷⁴ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Thirty-one items in the Plumbers' Goods Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of plumbing articles, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, thirty-one items subject to the Plumbers' Goods Group would be canceled with reference to item 158880. Concurrently, item 158880 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷⁵, and the description would be amended.

Additionally, three Notes would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

Analysis

Introduction

Twelve items in the Post Office Equipment Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of articles used in or are related to post offices, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 79Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twelve items subject to the Post Office Equipment Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Post Office Equipment" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷⁶. Additionally, the Post Office Equipment Group, item 160800, would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and Note, item 160811 would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁷⁶ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-one items subject to the Racks generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of racks and related commodities, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 82Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-one items subject to the Racks generic heading would be canceled with reference to item 164390. Concurrently, item 164390 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁷⁹ and the description would be amended. Additionally, the generic heading, item 163900, would be amended to read "Racks Group."

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 164390, in order to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz." Five Notes would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁷⁹ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Three items in the Recording Media Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of recording media, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 83Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, three items subject to the Recording Media Group would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Recording Media" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁸⁰.

Additionally, a new Note would be established, and Note, item 168906, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz." Note, item 168907, would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

AnalysisIntroduction

Twenty-five items subject to the Seeds generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of seeds and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-five items subject to the Seeds generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming “Seeds” with a “viz.” format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁸². Additionally, the Seeds generic heading, item 172750, would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, two Notes would be canceled with no further application, and two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁸² The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Thirty-two items in the Sheet Steel Articles Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of articles made from sheet steel, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, thirty-two items subject to the Sheet Steel Articles Group would be canceled with reference to item 175120. Concurrently, item 175120 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁸³, and the description would be amended to provide a "viz." format.

Additionally, four Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 175120 to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁸³ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Thirteen items subject to the Shells generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of shells, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, thirteen items subject to the Shells generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Shells" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁸⁴. Additionally, the generic heading, item 175360, would be amended to read "Shells Group."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁸⁴ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Four items subject to the Tobacco, Unmanufactured generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of unmanufactured forms of tobacco, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

SUBJECT 92Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, four items subject to the Tobacco, Unmanufactured generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Tobacco, Unmanufactured" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁸⁹. Additionally, the Tobacco, Unmanufactured generic heading, item 183200, would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, Note, item 183242, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁸⁹ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

SUBJECT 93

Analysis

Introduction

Sixty-nine items subject to the Tools, or Parts Named generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of tools tool parts, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, sixty-nine items subject to the Tools, or Parts Named generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Tools, or Parts Named" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁹⁰. Additionally, the generic heading, item 183550, would be amended to read "Tools, or Parts Named, Group."

Furthermore, seven Notes would be canceled with no further application, and six Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the "viz."

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁹⁰ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Concurrently, item 187645 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁹¹, and the description would be amended. Additionally, the Trunks, Traveling Bags or Related Articles generic heading, item 187600, would be canceled with no further application and the indentations for item 187645 would be adjusted accordingly.

Furthermore, Note, item 187636, would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

SUBJECT 96Analysis*Introduction

Twelve items subject to the Wax generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of waxes, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twelve items subject to the Wax generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming "Wax" with a "viz." format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale⁹³. Additionally, the Wax generic heading, item 196560, would be canceled with no further application.

The FCDC's Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁹³ The FCDC's standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

Analysis

Introduction

Thirty-six items in the Woodenware or Wooden Articles Group, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of articles made from wood, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, thirty-five items subject to the Woodenware or Wooden Articles group would be canceled with reference to item 199970. Concurrently, item 199970 would be modified to provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale⁹⁵, and the description would be amended to provide a “viz.” format. Additionally, item 198420 would be canceled with no further application.

Furthermore, Note, item 198382, would be canceled with no further application, and two Notes would be canceled and reestablished as new Notes attendant to item 199970 to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁹⁵ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.

SUBJECT 99

Analysis

Introduction

Twenty-two items subject to the Zinc or Zinc Alloys generic heading, as shown in the Present Classification Provisions herein, name particular types of articles made from zinc or zinc alloy, and these provisions can be difficult to interpret, apply, or verify.

Transportation Characteristics

Handling, Stowability, and Liability—There have been no reports of unusual or significant handling, stowability, or liability issues. Therefore, density has been identified as the primary transportation characteristic.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing analysis, the involved articles do not present any unusual or significant handling, stowing, or liability issues, and density has been determined to be the primary transportation characteristic.

Therefore, twenty-two items subject to the Zinc or Zinc Alloys generic heading would be canceled with reference to a new item, naming “Zinc or Zinc Alloys” with a “viz.” format. The new item would provide classes predicated on the FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale⁹⁶. Additionally, the generic heading, item 200480, would be amended to read “Zinc or Zinc Alloys Group.”

Furthermore, four Notes would be canceled with no further application, and Note, item 200752, would be canceled and reestablished as a new Note attendant to the new item to clarify the application of the articles within the “viz.”

The FCDC’s Packaging Development Manager has reviewed the proposed minimum packaging requirements and determined they are appropriate for the LTL environment.

⁹⁶ The FCDC’s standard 13-subprovision density scale includes reference to Item (Rule) 170, the inadvertence clause.
